Practice SATs

Dear Parents/Carers,

Next week, the children will be completing practice SATs papers, and the timetable is detailed at the bottom of this letter. We understand that children often worry about SATs, so we give them this experience as a practice and for reassurance. We have organised the three days of testing to reflect rooms and procedures that are planned for the actual SATs in May. It also enables us, as teachers, to recognise gaps in knowledge and understanding. This helps us to focus our teaching to the children's needs in preparation for the SATs in May.

Please try to ensure that your child attends school for the week and arrives on time. It is important that your child is prepared for this week. They need to be eating and sleeping properly and drinking lots of water to stand the best chance of performing to their potential.

Finally, the most important thing approaching the SATs is that your child is happy. At this end, we will only ever ask them to do their best and we are sure that you will be reinforcing this message at home.

Yours sincerely
